Headline:

Rain spreading in, but turning brighter later.

Today:

A dry, chilly start but rain spreading east across the area late morning with strengthening winds. Patchy snow likely across the Pennines, and perhaps some eastern parts as rain clears to leave sunny spells and blustery showers into the afternoon. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Tonight:

Largely dry and clear for many into the evening and overnight, with scattered showers gradually dying away and temperatures falling to give a widespread frost. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Tuesday:

A dry, frosty start Tuesday but turning very windy into the afternoon, with rain and some hill snow spreading to all parts. Becoming drier into the evening but staying windy. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:

Winds likely easing through Wednesday but remaining unsettled with further showers or more prolonged rain at times. Conditions perhaps becoming brighter and breezier by Friday.
